In the dumps

Holly Springs Mayor Dick Sears has a legitimate complaint. "Anyone who says putting a dump in the middle of town is a good thing -- it doesn't make any sense," Sears reportedly said June 5. "It's beyond my comprehension."

When the Wake County commissioners failed to listen to his pleas and voted to put the landfill there anyway, he complained that the commissioners spent more time defending the process than looking at the alternatives.

I suppose that few besides New Hill residents can truly appreciate the irony of such statements being made by one of the parties responsible for the plans to place a sewage plant in the center of our community.

For when New Hill residents made those same complaints about the proposed sewage plant, Mayor Sears and his counterparts in Apex, Cary and Morrisville would not listen to us.

My condolences to the citizens of Holly Springs. We in New Hill know the pain of having your concerns ignored by local government.
